MANY CONVERSIONS

Additions to Churches Yesterday not Confined to those who went Forward in the Revival.

The Revival Spirit is not dead but rather seems to be growing if the attendance upon all the Alexandria church services yesterday can be taken as a criterion. At both morning and evening services, in many instances, the auditoriums were crowded long before the hour of beginning them.

In all those churches in which it is customary to receive members immediately there were considerable accessions to the membership rolls. The three Episcopal Church also expect large additions to their lists of communicants. The date upon which there will be received depends upon the time at which Bishop Gibson, will be able to come here. The rectors of these churches expect, however that he will be able to come early in November.

One ofthe notable features of the yesterday morning service was the attendance of Gypsy Smith, jr., at the First Baptist Church where he heard the Rev. E. B. Jackson, preach on "Who is a Real Christian." Mr. Smith left soon after for Charlottesville, where his campaign opened last night with a very large attendance.

Presbyteiran Church

The Rev. Dr. John Lee Allison, yesterday received into his church membership 72 persons, of this number 60 came on confession of faith and 12 on renewal of vows. The greater number of these latter were members of the Sunday School. Dr. Allison preached an inspiring sermon in the morning concerning the duties of church membership to a congregation that packed the auditorium. The evening service was given over to the Sunday School under the direction of Captain Frank L. Slaymaker. Dr. Allison also spoke briefly. The Sunday School membership pledged itself to subscribe $50 for Home Mission work among the Southern mountaineers.

First Baptist.

The Rev. Dr. E. B. Jackson, preached at both morning and evening services to very large congregations. His sermons had to do with the Christian life and character and were inspiring and practical in their application to every-day needs.

A large number of new members were immersed and the rite of Baptisim will continue to be observed on each Sunday for some time to come.

Second Baptist.

This church also was crowded beyond its capacity at both services, and particulary in the evening when, from the Gypsy Smith, jr., hymnal. at 7:30 o'clock, the preaching service was preceeded by a song service from the Gypsy Smith, jr., hymnal. When the invitation was extended by the Rev. O. W. Triplett, pastor of the church, a number of new converts went forward and began the new life. Eleven women and twenty-four men were immersed.

Mr. Triplett's sermons were delivered especially with a view to instruction and encouragement of new members altho in one of them he said that some of the utterances he had to deliver would hit old members hard and they needed to be hit.

Trinity Methodist.

In response to the invitation of the Rev. Lyttleton M. Ferguson, there were a number of conversions in Trinity Church yesterday.

Rev. Ferguson preached two inspiring sermons yesterday, on "Your Adversary," and "A Faithful Saying," to two of the largest congregations the church has held in a long time.

Methodist Protestant.

The congregation which heard the Rev. Edward T. Kirkley preach yesterday, were among the best, not alone from the point of numbers, but also in the spirit manifested, the church has known during Mr. Kirkley's incumbency. Mr. Kirkley admitted twelve persons into membership and there was one response to his invitation to begin the new life. Mr. Kirkley preached an optimistic and cheering sermon on "Joy," in the evening.

Methodist Church, South.

In the Methodist Church, South, at both services yesterday, a number of people accepted the invitation extended by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Duffy, at both services. On next Sunday Dr. Duffey will formally welcome into the church the recent converts of his own services, as also those who have come to his congregation as a result of the revival.

A very large congregation participated in the communion service in the morning. The evening sermon on "Christ's Indication," was preceded by a short song service from the Revival Hymnal.

PROSPECTS FOR PLANT

M. B. Harlow Sees Washingtonians in Effort to Induce Their Co-operation—Meeting on Wednesday.

The propsects of Alxeandria securing the new government armor plant are growing brighter every day. It is openly said that the facilities offered by this city surpass those of any other city bidding for the plant. There is a river front of seven miles here which is paralleled by seven railroads.

M. B. Harlow, who is working assiduously in the interests of his home city, visited Washington again today, and made additional statements regardin gthe facilities offered in Alexandria for the plant, which, it is believed were convincing. While in the capital cit yhe called upon P. T. Moran, President of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and suggested that the latter body appoint a committee to act with a similar committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Alexandria, to work in the interests of this city. Mr. Moran made it known that the Chamber of Washington, should find Washington is not to be selected, will use every effort to secure the plant for Alexandria.

The general committee of Alexandrians who are devoting much of their time in efforts to bring the plant here, will meet Wednesday at 3 p. m., in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. Final preparations for presenting Alexandria's claims to the United States officials will be perfected at this meeting, hence every member is requstd to be present. The brief will be taken to Washington on Thursday at 11 o'clock a. m.

EXCITING SCENE IN COURT.

Wrathful Prisoner Fined Five Dollars For Contempt.

A woman sought the services of Officer Power last night in a search for her husband. It was supposed that the missing man was in an ark owned by Otto ogelgesang, on the river shore in the northeastern section of the city. The officer and the woman proceeded to the spot and the former rapped upon the door. Vogelgesang, who was in bed, at the time, objected to being disturbed, and, according to the officer, used unconventional language to him. The officer threatened to force the door, when the coloquy became more exciting. Vogelgesang had protested that the man being sought was not in the ark, and he alleged that the officer had acted rude toward him, and had threatened to use his stick.

The case came before Justice Caton in the Pollice Court this morning, when Vogelgesang in his testimony grew wrathful and called the officer a liar. Justice Caton immediately fined him $5 for contempt. The woman in the case being absent, it was determined to continue the matter until tomorrow morning in order to obtain her evidence.

THE RAMBLER.

We are inclined to laugh at fond parents who talk continuously of the doings of their youngsters, but we laugh kindly at that—at heart we sympathise with them even though they often bore us. And yet why shouldn't they be proud of their youngsters, and talk about them? God created man after His own image and in the creation of another such image, men and women achieve infinitely more than the painter, the sculptor, or the writer, for these latter, after all, simply attempt to reproduce human life.

The creative instinct lies in all of us. We must create either a picture, a child, a book, a wooden model or mischief. The old axiom 'Satan finds mischief for idle hands to do' is a recognition of this creative instinct. And that is why it is imperative that we must all have something to do all of the time, whether work or play. Look back into your experience and think of the people you know who went smash. You'll find their action had its source in evil throught grown and nurtured in idleness. And so those of us who at times grow weary of our labor have yet cause to be thankful for it. Work is the greatest painkiller in the world. I heard a very charming woman say yesterday: "Thank God for work!" I echoed her thought. I knew what trouble she has passed through and I can see that work alone has kept her sweet and mentally wholesome.

Straw votes seem to be the fashion just now, so in my rambling yesterday I also took one. I spoke to thirty working men. Of this number nine were Republicans. And of the nine, six had been drawn to Wilson, by his action in the eight-hour question. Frankly, I was a little surprised by the appreciation of the President's motives. The thing that sticks out in their minds is his statement that the eight-hour day needs no arbitration —that it has the approval of society in general and has come to be an almost generally recognised right. One of the thirty was a railroad engineer.

"How do Republican railroad men feel toward the President?" I asked.

"Republican what?" He asked.

"Republican railroad men." I repeated.

"There ain't any," he retorted laconically.

I sometimes think that if people who literally pitch money away could know how little others have they would be greatly ashamed of themselves.

And of all the aches I think that of hungering and thirsting for the small but beautiful little things which make for the refinement of life is the very hardest to bear—year in and year out.

It is not the poverty manifested in rags that is the most terrible. Each starved soul hides a tragedy.

In Alexandria as well as everywhere else—there are many women with beautiful characters and aspirations who have to go through life on coarse fare and in coarse clothes. Do you know any such? And do you know that a present of some little thing that would satisfy their aesthetic cravings would give them greater happiness than a dozen banquets? But they are sensitive souls and hug their sorrows to their own hearts. And never make the mistake of thinking that you always know poverty when you see it.

EVANS'S BURIAL TODAY

Funeral Service for Noted Horseman Conducted in Home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Douglas.

The funeral services for the late James Percy Evans, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Douglas, parents of Mr. Evan's wife, who was Miss Lucy Douglas. The Rev. Dr. Wm. J. Morton, officiated both at these services and the interment which was in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

Mr. Evans died on Saturday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, in the Polyclinic Hospital, New York. The immediate causes were pneumonia and peritonitis, which set in following an accident on the race track at Jamaica, Long Island, in which Mr. Evans was thrown from his mount in a gallant attempt to win at the last hurdle. when his mount, Association, raced neck and neck with Margery Jaque, ridden by A. J. Deveraux.

Mrs. Evans accompanied the body to this city from New York. With her were J. Temple Gwathmey, of New York, and Warrenton; Val Crane, of New York; Leo Evans, brother of the deceased, and Sidney Josephthal, of New York.

Besides his wife Mr. Evans is survived by his mother, Mrs. Katherine Evans, and a brother, Leo Evans, of Warrenton, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Hallorday, of Bayside, Long Island.

Mr. Evans was born in Washington, D. C., September 15, 1874. He was educated at Georgetown University and after his graduation, took up farming as an occupation. He soon became interested in horses especially and speedily became one of the best-known horsemen in the East. He has many notable victories to his credit.

Present at the funeral services were many well-known horsemen as well as many friends of both families concerned.

WOMAN'S WORK.

Commend Position Taken by Virginia Women.

The Third annual Flower Exhibition, with five judges from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., was given by the Civic League at Falls Church, on Friday and Saturday, of last week, and proved a most brilliant success.

The Civic League has recently joined the Virginia Federation of which Miss Helen N. Cummings is president, and she was delightfully entertained by its members when she visited Falls Church, and addressed the club.

Miss Cummings also visited the Current Events Club, of Vienna, and gave an account of her trip to the biennial session in New York. She has received letters from all over the United States, commending Virginia's courage in the stand taken in declining a directorship in the General Federation. The State President announced at the meeting of the nominating committee at the business session of the Biennial that the delegates, at a state meeting in New York, instructed the State President to vote against this proposition of having a director from each State. Therefore, the State President, in order to carry out the instructions of her State, presented no name as director from Virginia, the Federation being in no financial condition to defray the expenses of a director.

WE LOVE CAESAR, BUT ROME MORE

An interview between a prominent and useful Alexandrian and a representative of a Washington paper, concerning the probabilities of placing the government armor plant in this city, gave a resume of the brief which is to be presented in behalf of Alexandria. The article was substantially printed in the Gazette of the same day. The superior advantages of Alexandria were succinctly set forth and we believe they will appeal to Secretary Daniels and the General Board of the Navy Department.

As the article appeared in the Washington paper it contained a suggestion that Alexandria might eventually be absorbed by the District of Columbia and become what it was prior to 1846.

Every Alexandrian is sincerely desirous that our city will secure the armor plant, and our people are ready to pay any reasonable price for this great desideratum, but a great majority are averse to dissolving their relations with the Old Dominion in order to expand their commercial importance.

A few good citizens have at times been impressed with arguments of certain persons who are restive and never at ease if compelled to endure any relations or conditions for a short time, no matter how pleasant and satisfactory they are to others. And while we have the greatest respect for those who still show traces of the retrocession fever, we prefer to live under the coat of arms of Virginia. The Goddess of Liberty has been deprived of much of her locks in times past—the chopping off of enough of her territory which comprises what is now known as West Virginia, and we do not believe our people will voluntarily be parties to any more spoliations along that line.

INFLUX IN CHURCHES.

The fruits of the recent revival services in Alexandria were apparent yesterday, every church being filled with worshippers. Men and women who had long neglected mingling with the people who realize that the spiritual life is all or nothing, reappeared and were joyfully greeted, while large numbers who never recognized the claims of the Creator were present manifesting interest in the services. There was genuine joy in each congregation, a joy all hope will be perpetuated.

We sometimes suspect that our readers think we have devoted too much space to this all-important subject, but when we realize that good Christians make the best citizens, it is apparent that this matter should receive much of our space.

The late revival movement has left many echoes in our old city. Plans were formulated yesterday to interest the newly-received members, as well as those who have not evinced as much spirituality as they might in recent years. Bible classes will be formed of young and old alike and every effort made to keep all who have renounced the hidden things of darkness in the strait and narrow path which leads to the celestical city.

PRAYERS FOR PEACE.

Elsewhere it will be seen that the Pope is earnestly praying for the return of the dove of peace to this planet. The pontiff has been thus engaged for some time, or ever since the sword was drawn from the scabbard. The words, "The kingdom of heaven is taken by violence and the violent take it by force," is the tocsin of the holy see.

During the present season when the great Day of Atonement brings all Israelites to the throne of grace, the present generation of Hebrews, are crying mightily to Jehovah for peace. Jews in all wars are placed upon the anvil by the different belligerents. Members of this ancient race are in all armies, and brothers are fighting brothers in the trenches on the Somme and in the rifle pits of the eastern war zone. Those left at their homes are ill-treated and pillaged first by one army and then the other.

Prayers were offered in thousands of synagogues throughout the United States and the world at large yesterday for a speedy termination of the awful conflict which is devastating a large portion of the globe.

The Israelite is told to "pray for the peace of Jerusalem." He has no capital city of his own, nor has he had any during many centuries. Hence he is not praying for his ancient home, but for the countries in which his lot has long been cast.

POLYGLOT CONDITIONS.

It is often suggested that entire communities in small and newly-formed towns and villages in the west do not speak English. They dwell among themselves and naturally continue to use their mother tongues.

On the East Side of New York, most of the residents of certain streets are Israelites. They speak their own tongue, and Hebrew letters are used on their signs, while their papers are printed in the dialect used previous to the Jewish captivity, twenty-five hundred years ago. Chinamen follow the example of the Israelites in the same locality.

The United States Bureau of Education is engaged in the commendable work of inducing immigrants to the United States to attend night schools, and chambers of Commerce throughout the country are engaged in this campaign. The Department of the Interior is urging all such organizations to vie in the work.

In 1910, 6,588,711 foreign-born whites were employed in the various industries and lines of business activity. Until the war started, this number was added to very greatly by immigration at the rate of a million a year. Over 1,462,134 adult males, most of whom are wage-earners, do not speak English, and consequently are an added problem to industry in the administration and management of plants.

BOOK CHAT.

A Weekly Resume of Some Worth-While Books.

"The Brook Kerith," by George Moore, MacMillian Company.

"Mr. Britling Sees It Through," by H. G. Wells, MacMillan Company.

These two books are among the most note-worthy of recent offerings. The Brook Kerith is especially so for a number of reasons. Those of us who have read some of Mr. Moore's earlier works must be frankly astonished that he, of all men, should undertake to tell the story of the life of Jesus. The author's mentality; his utter—almost unutterable at times—frankness concerning the inner life, as he sees it, has as often shocked as illuminated the minds of the ordinary people who lead ordinary lives. We are considering, however, minds of ten years ago; and so, as the minds of most of us have evolved from the prudery which forbade public discussion of conditions which yet existed all round us, so also, perhaps, Mr. Moore's mind may have evolved to a fitness to consider his very big subject. His artisanship is graceful as that of Robert Hichens and Maurice Hewlett and this book, while entirely dissimilar, has yet a flavor of "The Garden of Allah" and "The Forest Lovers." This comparison is made in connection with his power to lure the imagination back to the country in which Jesus lived at the time he lived in it. He paints some beautiful pictures of the Holy Land in the olden times.

As to the author's viewpoint of Jesus, it may be said that it is inevitable that each one of us, in accordance with our individual temperament, should possess a personal picture of the Saviour which is likely to remain unchanged by anything of ths sort that we may read. At times Mr. Moore approaches the sublimity of conception which abounds in Renan's "Life of Christ", and also, but less abundantly, in the book by Canon Farrar.

Mr. Wells' Book.

Mr. Wells' new novel gives one an absorbingly interesting view of the effect of the war upon the personal life of the English people. The ordinary reader will find it clever and penetrating as are all Mr. Wells' writings, without, however, the strain which he so often imposes upon the intellect of people not accustomed to intensive thinking. It will perhaps rank as one of the most popular of the author's recent productions. It has also a strong sociological as well as readable value. We are all as much, if not more so, interested in the condition of the people not at war in the countries involved in the great conflict as in those actually at the front.

Potential Russia, by Richard Washburn Child, E. P. Dutton and Company.

In addition to being one of the most graceful and sympathetic of writers of current fiction Mr. Child is fortunate in the possesion of an intimate knowledge of Russia. This country, with China, is one of the countries which has a strong hold upon the imagination of a great majority of people. It clossal possibilities; its vast expanse; the fact that so little is known concerning it, make it of absorbing interest. It is fortunate that Mr. Child should have turned the instincts of the humanitarian, the precision of the historian, and the power to write already alluded to into an effort to portray the future of Russia for us. It is a well-worth while book, this of which we speak.

Other New Books.

"The Rising Tide," by Margaret Deland, Harper and Brothers. A very charming story.

The Magnificent Adventure, by Emerson Hough, D. Appleton and Co. Equal to the best of Mr. Hough's tirring and colorful yarns.

For the youngsters, Billy Topsail, M. D., by Norman Duncan, The Fleming H. Revell Company.

Chronic Dysentery.

"An old gentleman of this town who was almost at the point of death with chronic dysentery some time ago and had given up all hope of recovery was induced to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. One dose stopped the discharge, and after taking a few more doses he was completely cured," writes J. L. Baer, West Manchester, Pa. "Many residents of Baer's Station can testify to the truth of the above and were aware of the old gentleman's condition." Obtainable everywhere.

Modernized Chiropractic has put more so-called Incurable Diseases on the list of curables than any other drugless method known.

When applied to the study of the nature, cause and elimination of disease, it becomes a science and philosophy whch is able to locate and analyze, unerringly, the cause of disease, and provides the best method known at the present time for removing the cause.

The method is original, unique, adequate, and is the most prompt in bringing about a cure. It is absolutely safe.

BRITISH TRAMP SUNK

Bay Liner "City of Norfolk" Badly Damaged but There is No Loss of Life.

Norfolk, Oct. 7.—In a collision in the inner harbor shortly before 8 o'clock last night, the British tramp steamer Hawkhead, said to have been at anchor, was sunk, and the Bay liner City of Norfolk, of the Chesapeake Steamship Company's line, was badly damaged. There was no loss of life and, so far as can be learned, no one seriously injured.

The accident was due to a heavy fog hanging over the harbor. The city of Norfolk, was outward-bound, and carried in the neighborhood of 100 passengers. The majority were at supper, when the crash came. Great excitement prevailed for a few minutes, but was quickly quieted by the officers on the liner.

Fearing that the damage to the steamer was greater than could be ascertained, the passengers on the City of Norfolk were immediately transferred to the Old Dominion River steamer Pocahontas, where they remained only a few minutes, when the majority were transferred to an out-going Old Bay Line steamer for the continuation of the voyage up the bay. About fifteen of the passengers elected to return to Norfolk.

The Hawkhead sank about fifteen minutes after the collision. She is in about thirty feet of water. She sank stern first, and the vessel's bow is still visible from the piers. The small boats from the City of Norfolk, the Pocahontas and other harbor boats in the vicinity rescued all on board the tramp.

The bow of the City of Norfolk was crushed for ten feet, but the bulkheads held well, and she remained afloat. She is declared to be in no danger, although it will be necessary to send her to the shipyard. The Norfolk returned to her pier with the assistance of the company's tugs, rushed to the scene.

Except the statement that the harbor was enveloped in fog, officials have not given any cause for the collision.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

Venemous Snakes Snap at Face of Man who Had Escaped From Sheriff.

Denver, Oct., 6.—A horrible death, alone at night in a vast, trackless swamp, where he gradually sank from sight into the foul green mire, while venomous snakes snapped at his face, is the fate of Samuel D. Barry, former resident of Golden, who escaped from a Colorado Sheriff, Sunday, when being brought back from New Orleans to stand trial in Golden on charges of horse stealing. Barry, 25 years old, leaped through the open window of a Santa Fe train near Guthrie, Okla., when the express was making 50 miles an hour and passing a swamp 40 miles square. It was nearly 9 o'clock at night, and dark.

The train was stopped and a search begun. Traces of blood were followed from where Barry landed to the edge of the swamp, a few yards away. Out in the dismal, murky swamp moans and cries could be faintly heard, but these suddenly ceased. By the aid of their lanterns they could see hundreds of the writhing, wriggling, venomous reptiles which infest the morass.

Residents of the region say there is no doubt Barry plunged headlong into the black swamp to escape, and gradually sank below the surface of the treacherous bog within a few minutes. They also state that the reptiles would have caused his death in a few minutes.

VIRGINIA FORTUNATE

Because of Stringent Quarantine Under State Health Officer Smith Infantile Paralyses is kept down.

Following a conference in Richmond recently between State Health Commissioner Williams and Dr. W. M. Smith, of Alexandria, president of the State Board of Health, an order was entered by Commissioner Williams in the following language:

"Careful analysis of complete returns for infantile paralysis having shown that 97 per cent of cases in Virginia are under 12 years, State quarantine against infantile paralysis is lowered to that age after 12:01 A. m., October 8. Special cases will be considered on their merits. Thus far Virginia has had less paralysis than any State on the Atlantic seaboard. We attribute this to quarantine. If the disease continues to spread in Massachusetts and Maryland, Virginia may be compelled to quarantine children under twelve from these States."

Under the quarantine order entered by the State board on August 26, Virginia was unconditionally closed to children under 16 years coming from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The only exception allowed was in the case of Virginia children returning to their homes, who, it was provided, had to be quarantined for two weeks after their return.

The quarantine regulation remains as it was before, with two important changes. Instead of sixteen, twelve years is fixed as the age under which children from the proscribed States will be barred, and a modification leaves room for a suspension of even this limitation in special cases, to be considered on their merits. The new order goes into effect to-morrow night, one minute after midnight.

Alexandria policeman are stationed daily in Rosement and Washington street extended watching automobiles entering this city, and coming from proscribed States are stopped and investigations made. No cases of infantile paralysis exist in our city.

The age limit of the patients during this three-month period was 15. More than 98 per cent were under 14 years old and 97.4 per cent were under 11. Children under 10 years old formed 96.2 per cent. of the total number of cases; under nine years, 92.5 per cent; under eight, 89.9 per cent; under seven, 87.4 per cent; under six, 82.3 per cent; under five 77.3 per cent; under four, 64.7 per cent; under three, 49.5 per cent; under two, 36.9 per cent, and under one year 21.5 per cent.

Despite the warning issued by the British Ambassador and in face of the fact that the German submarine U-53 sunk two British ships and crippled another off Nantucket Saturday night and yesterday the British steamers Sahara and the Marioneth sailed yesterday from Newport News for England with cargoes of grain and food-stuffs. The British steamers Maxton, Orkincraig and the Berwin Polawith came in. They were advised of the presence of the German submarine off the New England coast by British warships.

Announcement was made yesterday that Secretary of Commerce William C. FRENCH STILL ADVANCING

Gain a Mile on Western Battle Front Saturday.

Paris, Oct. 9—When, after a week's rain, fine weather came Saturday, Gen. Foch advanced his line on a five-mile front to a depth attaining a mile at some places.

The German artillery never made a poorer showing. Shortage in shells was evident, from the few ill-timed barrages turned, but the infantry fought fiercely.

The German line had been worn thin at Sailly and a violent crossfire was turned on by the French batteries, pinning the troops in their rear trenches and inflicting serious loss.

London, Oct. 9—The hard fighting which has been in progress on the long Galician and Volhynian front appears to have subsided almost completely, probably upon the exhaustion of the contending forces.

"My son nineteen years of age suffered frequently from bilious attacks. My husband brought home a bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets and began giving them to him. They helped him right away. He began to eat heartily and picked up right along." writes Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Kirkville, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.
